VOLUME 17. EIGHT PAGES MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, TUESDAY, NOV. 2, 1926 EIGHT PAGES NO. 431

CITY BALANCE NOW $57,178.20

BILLS YET TO BE PAID, BUT TAXES ARE COMING IN.

WATER FUND $39,426,81

Will Be Reduced When Pump and Well Are Paid For.—Two Fires, One Police Court Case.

With only last month's bills to be paid, Maryville has a balance of $57,178.20 in the city treasury, according to the report of Mayor W. O. Garrett at the regular monthly meeting of the City Council last night.

For several months the balance has been decreasing as collections of 1925 taxes decreased. Now the 1926 taxes are beginning to come in, and the balance is expected to mount upward.

The balance in the water department was $39,426.81, with receipts last month of $3,047.48. This balance will be reduced when payment is made for a new electric pump, recently purchased, and for a new clear water well which is yet to be built.

Balances in other funds follow:

Street, $1,612.75; library, $1,490.57; general, $8,488.49; first water bond interest, $811.91; street workers' guarantee, $301; street lighting, $396.94; second water bond principal, $847.01; second water bond interest, $43.50; petty cash, $33.71.

Burt Rowley, fire chief, reported only two fires during October, and the report of Judge J. H. Sayler showed only one police court case, with a $5 fine on a drunkenness charge. The city scales produced a revenue of $21.42.

Receipts at the Public Library were $22.48, of which fines netted $11.29, and penny-a-day books $4.99. The library, according to the report of Miss Grace Langan, librarian, was visited by 1,084 readers during the month, an average of 35 a day. Books issued to juvenile readers totaled 377 and to adults 1,056, of which 951 were fiction. Magazines brought the total to 1,512, or an average per day of 60. Fifty-four new readers cards were issued.

There were no collections of 1925 taxes.

Funeral Services to Be Held Tomorrow

Burial of Mrs. Almena McNeal To Be At Graham; Came Here In 1864.

Funeral services for Mrs. Almena McNeal who died shortly before noon yesterday will be held at the home 6 miles southeast of Graham at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. J. H. Thompson of Burlington Junction will conduct the service. Burial will be at Graham.

Mrs. McNeal suffered a paralytic stroke Thursday and scarcely regained consciousness. She moved to Nodaway County in 1864.

County Has First Snow of Season

Nodaway County had three snows to its credit at this date last year. The first snow flurry in 1925 arrived October 21, the second, October 27, and the third, which accompanied a cold wave, came October 28. Today's snow, the first of the season, was like the usual "first snow," it came down rather ambitiously, but melted as soon as it fell leaving the streets wet and "sloppy."

Joshua Bliss Dies of Pneumonia Last Night

Services Will Be Held at Funeral Home at 10 o'clock Tomorrow Morning.

Joshua Bliss, 39 years old, died at 6:10 o'clock last evening at his home, 716 East Second street, following a four weeks' illness. Death was due to pneumonia.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Price Funeral chapel conducted by the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the Baptist Church. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mr. Bliss had been a life-long resident of Maryville. For sixteen years he was employed by the former Schumacher Grocery firm. Surviving are his widow and seven children, Pauline, Robert, Chloe, Junior, Kenneth, Jackie and Jacqueline, his father Isaac Bliss, a brother, Clyde Bliss, and a half-brother, S. R. Reynolds of Omaha.

1927 Auto Tags to Be Blue and White

550,000 Passenger Car Sets Ordered From St. Louis Firm—To Be on Sale February 1.

Jefferson City, Nov. 2.—The state automobile license tags in Msisouri for 1927 will be blue and white. The lettering and numerals will be white, upon a blue field. An order has been placed by the Secretary of State with a St. Louis firm for 550,000 sets of plates, front and rear, for passenger cars and 65,000 sets of plates for automobile trucks and trailers.

Issuance of the 1927 plates will begin Feb. 1, when the automobile license year begins. No plates will be sent to owners before that date, but applications will be received by the motor vehicle registration division after Jan. 1.

CHANGE DATES OF ROLL CALL

COLLEGE HAS RED CROSS DRIVE THIS WEEK.

OPENS HERE NOV. 16

Burlington Junction Also Has Campaign Thursday, Friday and Saturday; Committees Named.

Annual Red Cross roll call will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the State Teachers College here. It will be held the last half of this week at Burlington Junction, also. The date for the opening of the drive here will be November 16, it was announced by Glenn Reese, county chairman of the annual roll call, this morning. Various meetings including the teachers meeting and the regimental meeting in Kansas City have caused the dates to be arranged in this manner. The drive here will extend from November 16 to Thanksgiving Day.

Edward W. Gray and Chairman Reese will talk at the college assembly tomorrow morning on the Red Cross and the annual roll call.

The committee in charge of the drive at the college is composed of the presidents of the various organizations and societies.

Mrs. W. J. Carpenter assisted by the high school is in charge of the roll call at Burlington Junction, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Plans are being made by Mr. Reese to make the 1926 roll call a thorough success, Miss Betty Turner, executive secretary of the American Red Cross said today.

The executive committee in charge of the annual roll call at the college is composed of chairman, Dorothy England, Marvin Westfall and Hope Manchester.

Commends Speaker Who Will Be Here

J. W. Griest "Knocks 'em For Goal" At Meeting At Ft. Smith, Ark.—Tickets On Sale Tomorrow.

The Fort Smith, Ark., Chamber of Commerce has this to say of J. W. Griest, general manager of the Retail Merchants Institute, Chicago, who will be the principal speaker at a dinner to be held here next Monday night under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce:

"We had J. W. Griest with us recently and 'he knocked 'em for a goal'. He addressed a meeting of about 200 business men and gave them a forceful straight-forward talk. At the close of his talk he was literally mobbed by our merchants who insisted on his staying over and addressing them further that night. Mr. Griest consented and we had a turnaway crowd. What Mr. Giest had to say was timely and helpful."

It is hoped by the Chamber of Commerce directors that Mr. Griest will have a large audience to address here for newspapers, advertising clubs, chambers of commerce and luncheon clubs which he has addressed all speak so highly of him and his message.

Every person in Maryville who sells anything is urged to attend this meeting. It is open to the public, although it is necessary to sell tickets in advance in order to know how many to prepare for. Tickets will go on sale tomorrow.

Jack Lee Roelofson.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roelofson, jr., announce the birth of a son this morning at St. Francis hospital. The baby has been named Jack Lee. Mrs. Roelofson was the former Miss Olive Ewing.

EARLY VOTING HERE IS LIGHT

FEWER BALLOTS THAN TWO YEARS AGO ARE INDICATED.

AT 2 O'CLOCK, 1,437

Two Years Ago Press Time Total Was 2,692.—Several Races Reported Close.

A total of 1,437 votes had been cast in Maryville and Polk township at 2 o'clock this afternoon. At all the polling places here, there were from a dozen to twenty people either voting or waiting to vote at that time. The afternoon vote is expected to be heavy.

Two years ago, when a president was elected, the total vote here at press time on election day was 2,692, while four years ago, an off-election year, there were 1,916 at press time. Today's vote here apparently will be much less than two years ago and may not much exceed 2,500.

The vote by wards at 2 o'clock this afternoon follows:

First ward	307
Second ward	285
Third Ward	431
Fourth Ward	414

More interest here is being taken in the race for prosecuting attorney between George P. Wright and L. L. Livengood. Another interesting contest is between Mrs. Mamie Clardy and Jack Greeson for recorder. While there was a great deal of "dope" about this candidate and that candidate being ahead here and there, several of the contests were said to be close.

In the first ward, the first two voters this morning were L. E. Carpenter and Miss Viva Cloud. In the second ward, O. R. Tindall and C. W. Alexander cast the first and second votes, while in the third, Ellis G. Cook was first and Mrs. Ray O'Grady second. Charles E. Stilwell was first with A. N. Reese a close second in the fourth ward.

The polls will close at 7 o'clock tonight.

At the last "off-year" election in 1922, the total vote on senator in the county was 9,859. In Maryville, the vote was as follows:

	Brewster	Reed	Total
First ward	503	230	733
Second ward	445	306	752
Third ward	563	230	793
Fourth ward	506	442	950
Total Polk Twp.	2017	1208	3228

In the senatorial race, the county that year was Republican, 6,142 to 3,717, but for state superintendent of schools the Republicans led only by 5,426 to 4,743.

Two years ago, the Republicans carried the county for President, 6,242 to 5,803, but the Democratic candidate for governor won by 6,228 to 6,127. The total vote in the county in 1924 was 12,447.

On President, Maryville and Polk township voted as follows:

	Coolidge	Davis	Total
First ward	391	363	768
Secon ward	430	449	905
Third ward	513	369	902
Fourth ward	506	356	896
Total	1840	1537	3471

In most towns in the county a fair vote was reported. Skidmore was reported to have 200 out of a possible 700 votes cast at one o'clock today. Voting was reported good in Pickering, Ravenwood, Gaynor, Parnell and Graham. The vote in Hopkins was "about average."

Rebellion Averted on Franco-Spanish Border

Arrest Of 57 Spaniards And Italians Probably Stopped Capture Of Army Posts.

Perpigman, France, Nov. 2.—Capture of Spanish army posts in the Franco-Spanish border and the possibility of simultaneous rebellion against Premier Primo de Rivera in Bercelona, Spain, were believed by police to have been averted today by the arrest of fifty-seven Spaniards and Italians, who arrived here ready to carry out their part of the plot.

Police today were seeking other similar bands of plotters.

The arrested men had no ammunition but their baggage contained telephone equipment which, the police said, would have been used to establish communication between the rebels.

Come to Courtroom For Election Returns

Democrat-Forum Has Arranged Special Service for Tonight—Bulletins To Be Received.

The Democrat-Forum has arranged for a special election service tonight to be given at the circuit courtroom. In addition to receiving county returns, bulletins from over the state and the country will be received from the Western Union.

Election returns from every voting precinct will be posted as rapidly as they are received on a black board in the circuit courtroom. The Democrat Forum has selected some one in each precinct to phone in the returns and it is expected as good a service will be given as possible in a general election.

The returns from the county will be received at the Democrat-Forum office and sent over to the courtroom.

You are invited to be at the courtroom to hear these returns.

Radio returns of the state election will be broadcast at the courtroom through the courtesy of the Price Furniture Co.

GRANTS NORRIS VENUE CHANGE

PASTOR WINS OPENING ROUND IN LEGAL BATTLE.

CHARGES PREJUDICE

Case Of Ft. Worth Minister "Common Topic Of Conversation," Defense Witnesses Testify.

Ft. Worth, Nov. 2.—The defense motion for a change of venue in the trial of the Rev. J. Frank Norris, charged with the murder of Dexter E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman, was granted by Judge George E. Hosey here this afternoon.

Norris' counsel contended the pastor could not receive a fair trial here because of prejudices against him.

Judge Hosey had heard testimony to this effect for a day and a half and granted the motion shortly after court opened this afternoon.

Ft. Worth, Nov. 2.—Nearly everyone in this section of Texas has formed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the Rev. J. Frank Norris, on trial for the murder of Dexter E. Chipps, according to the testimony offered at the hearing today on the defense's motion for a change of venue.

Newspapers and coercion have influenced most Texans so that Norris cannot get a fair trial in this county at least, according to the testimony this morning.

J. B. Davis, railroad man and member of Norris' First Baptist Church, said he "presumed" members of the church had taken such an interest that they had called upon prospective jurors on the telephone and discussed the trial. Davis admitted contributing $10 toward the pastor's defense.

E. H. Radcliff, former assistant county attorney of Tarrant County, followed Davis and agreed with the latter's testimony that the Norris case was a common topic of conversation.

"I would say it is impossible to obtain twelve men in Tarrant County who have not pre-judged the case," Radcliff declared on the stand. Other witnesses testified to the same belief.

During the morning session, Norris sat at the defense counsel table, busily chewing gum and glancing about the courtroom which was well filled with spectators.

Clay Cook, attorney and member of Norris' congregation, said he believed "propaganda" in newspapers had greatly influenced the case.

Mail Truck Held Up Near New Orleans

Two Motor Car Loads of Bandits Get One Pouch Near Destrahan, Louisiana.

New Orleans, Nov. 2.—A United States mail truck was held up near Destrahan early today by two motor car loads of bandits, according to reports reaching police here.

The early reports did not indicate the amount of the loot, nor did they mention whether the truck was guarded by marines.

The brief reports reaching here indicated that the bandits got one pouch of registered mail and then started toward New Orleans.

RECORD VOTE IS EXPECTED

MISSOURI CITIZENS RUSHING TO POLLS.

DISORDERS AT K. C.

Several Arrests There Reported—No Disturbances At St. Louis—Candidates Issue Statements.

Kansas City, Nov. 2—Vote buying and clashes at the polls in Kansas City marked the early morning voting, according to statements from Lincoln R. Toyne, chief of detectives.

Toyne stated reports from polling places indicated voters are being bought freely, with liquor and money being used as the means of influencing the voters. Several arrests have been made and Frank Benanti, justice of the peace, was taken before the prosecutor for questioning.

Writs of habeas corpus were presented for the release of eleven Democratic workers by A. D. Hadsell, Democratic attorney, who stated the workers had been arrested.

Extra detectives and patrolmen have been sent to polls in the North Side where it is said liquor is being dispensed to buy votes.

Although the voting early was light, it was much heavier than had been previously expected at Democratic and Republican headquarters.

Sedalia, Nov. 2.—One of the largest off-year votes in the history of Pettis County was being cast here today. When the polls opened at 7 a. m. there was an immediate rush to vote.

Jefferson City, Nov. 2.—Reports from over the state were that a tremendous vote would be polled in the off-year election today.

Bitterness of the present campaign between Harry B. Hawes, Democrat, and George H. Williams, Republican, for the Senatorial chair, has led to an unprecedented interest in the election, observers say.

Cole County voted early and it was indicated the vote today would be three-fourths the strength of the county.

St. Louis, Nov. 2.—An orderly election is under way in St. Louis, reports coming to the polls say. No reports of disturbance were received up to 10 o'clock this morning.

Polls this morning were crowded and a number of "home votes" were coming out, it was said. Both Harry B. Hawes, Democrat, and George H. Williams, Republican—opponents for the junior United States Senatorship—issued last-minute statements reflecting optimism over their chances.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 2.—First reports from over the state today indicated only a nominal vote was being registered in Oklahoma's general election.

No physical disturbances were reported at Okfuskee County, which threatened to be an election sore spot, due to reported feeling against negro voters. That section of the state was reported quiet.

Friends of Mussolini Rally to His Defense

Fascist Leaders To Organize Band, Members Of Which Would Sacrifice Life For Premier.

Rome, Nov. 2.—Fascist leaders planned today to create for Premier Mussolini an armed guard of nearly one million men, literally sworn to die for Il Duce.

That was the answer of Mussolini's worshiping followers to the latest attempt to assassinate their leader. The plan was simple; merely to make a part of the Fascist ritual an oath in which every member would swear to sacrifice his life for the sake of the premier.

It was expected that at Friday's meeting of the Fascist Grand Council, the proposed oath would be ordered administered and that there would be provisions for automatic expulsion of anyone who would not comply.

Italy still was inflamed today with a fervor of thanksgiving for Mussolini's escape and an anger at anyone who could conceivably think ill of Il Duce.

Miss Katherine Drain of Shelbyville, who has been the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. G. W. Turner, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Romasser, for several days, left this morning.

Typhoon Warning Is Given From Manila

Philippine Capital Urged To Remain Calm Awaiting Approaching Storm—Believe Quakes Over.

Manila, Nov. 2.—Warning from the observatory that a typhoon was approaching and that the city should prepare for it served to quiet thousands of persons who were made panic stricken when the fifth earthquake within a week rocked Manila today.

Several were injured when they jumped from the windows of swaying buildings, and in the public market places throughout the city people knelt and prayed for the tremors to cease.

The observatory's message said that the typhoon carries much more reasonable ground for alarm and urged the pepole to be calm inasmuch as the earthquake was over. The city is now preparing for the typhoon which it knows how to meet.

AIMEE'S FATE TO JUDGE SOON

OPPOSING COUNSEL PREPARING ARGUMENTS.

TRUNK IS EXAMINED

Pair Of Women's Shoes Found Which Are Not Property Of Evangelist —State Demands Trial.

Los Angeles, Nov. 2.—Final arguments were prepared today by opposing counsel in the Aimee Semple McPherson hearing for delivery before Municipal Judge Samuel R. Blake tomorrow.

The attorneys expect to conclude their arguments by the end of the day and Judge Blake, it was anticipated, will decide before the end of the week whether he believes sufficient evidence has been presented to warrant holding the evangelist for trial on charges of perjury and conspiracy.

The state will demand that Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, be held to answer for alleged tampering with the machinery of justice, including the superior courts.

The defense will insist that the case be dismissed on the technical grounds that no crime has been committed by the evangelist.

If Mrs. McPherson is not held for trial, it is probable, according to admissions at the district attorney's office, that the state will demand a rehearing on the strength of asserted new evidence against the evangelist said to have been found in Kenneth G. Ormiston's trunk.

The contents of the trunk, which District Attorney Asa Keyes claims the radio operator took across the continent to New York, is being thoroughly checked over by county detectives.

Sixty-seven items of intimate wearing apparel, which Keyes asserted he is positive were worn by Mrs. McPherson, make up the state's latest file of exhibits.

Part of the clothing has already been traced to the evangelist, according to the district attorney. On the other hand, a pair of shoes which the state found in the trunk and is seeking to trace to the evangelist, are the wrong size, it was learned, and could not possibly have been worn by her.

There was some betting in sporting circles on the outcome of the hearing, many gamblers offering 2 to 1 that Mrs. McPherson would be bound over to superior court on the conspiracy charge.

Publisher Testifies in Slush Fund Case

$6,000 Spent In Political Advertising Against Senator Ralph Cameron, Witness Declares.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 2.—William P. Stuart, publisher of the Prescott Evening Courier, took the stand as a defense witness at the Arizona slush fund investigation today, and testified that approximately $6,000 was spent in political advertising against the candidacy of Senator Ralph Cameron.

Stuart declared that Senator Cameron's secretary had recently approached him, offering to buy his newspaper, a statement the latter declared was a falsehood.

Cashier Porterfield of the Albuquerque National Bank was called to the stand and testified he had no knowledge of any conspiracy to bring funds into this state from California and the East through his bank, to be used against Cameron's candidacy.

"COOLIDGEISM" PUT TO TEST

CONTROL OF CONGRESS HANGS IN BALANCE.

HEAVY VOTE URGED

Republicans Using "Prosperity" Issue In Their Battle For Retention Of Power— Democrats Are Favored.

Washington, Nov. 2—Control of congress for the next two years swayed at issue today as perhaps 20,000,000 voters in 47 states cast their ballots for candidates at the polls.

Thirty-two United States Senators and 435 members of the House of Representatives along with numerous state and civic officials are being chosen in the national ballot, which is to determine primarily whether President Coolidge is to have a favorable congress with him two years of his present administration or whether control is to be wrested from the Republicans by the Democrats.

Numerous presidential aspirants, beer and wine advocates, internationalists, irreconcilables, statesmen who have made history, unheard of youngsters who are to come to power and more women than have ever run for congress before —sixteen to be exact —have their fate involved in the outcome.

As the campaign closed and balloting began it appeared that the Democrats have an excellent opportunity of enlarging their representation in both houses of congress and perhaps seizing control either of one or both houses. They need win but eight seats from Republican representatives to topple the present majority party from its legislative throne.

In such an eventuality the Democratic leaders have promised to revise tariff laws and reduce taxes according to their own theory of revenues.

Arithmetically the chance of the Democrats could hardly be better. They have only six of their senators up for re-election and 182 of their house members, most of whom come from the solid democratic south or nominally democratic districts. While the Republicans have 25 senators up for re-election and 246 members of the House, many of whom come from districts which have upon numerous occasions in the past gone democratic.

Political prognosticators, irrespective of Wall Street, consider the odds about 1 to 2 that the Democrats will win the senate, about 1 to 3 that they will win the house and about 1 to 5 that they will win both houses. Chances are considered about even that they will gain six seats in the senate and 15 in the house.

Extensive efforts have been made by leaders of both parties to get out a full vote. Although the number of ballots cast usually depends upon the weather in many sections of the country, both Republican and Democratic chieftains consider it probable that 20,000,000 votes will be registered. This would be a record breaking number in a congressional year although considerably below the 29,000,000 cast in the 1924 presidential race. Many congressmen and senators have no opposition and of course will draw only a few of the regular party votes.

There are only about 14 states in which there are hot fights between the party candidates although every state except Maine has candidates upon the voting register. The Maine congres ional election was held Sept. 13 in accordance with the law of the state.

Although campaign debate has centered around prohibition, American adherence to the world court, taxation, tariff, campaign expenditures and other pending questions of the moment there is no single national issue which may be considered to be at stake. Each individual candidate has stressed his own issues although most of the Republicans have appealed to be returned to continue the prosperity and economy programs of President Coolidge. The president himself has taken little part in most of the races but the use of his name has theoretically made him an issue in many districts.

Vote in Nation May Set Off-Year Record

New York, Nov. 2.—Snow and cold winds in the Northwest, with a drizzle in the East, failed to keep voters from the polls today and indications this afternoon were that a record ballot might be rolled up.

More than twenty million persons were expected to register their choice for thirty-six Senatorial seats, 430 chairs in the House of Representatives and numerous county and city offices.

If the average of the first eight hours of balloting is maintained, all records for non-presidential years will be broken.

The weather was generally fair in the central states, Middle West, Southwest and Pacific coast, where, despite an apparent disinterestedness of voters during the campaign, a record poll was forecast.

President Coolidge set an example for citizens and braved the elements to cast his ballot at his home at North Hampton, Mass., before 10 o'clock this morning, despite the rain.

SCHOOL PLAN IS PROPOSED

NEED DEFINITE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM, SAYS LEE.

From the Kansas City Star:

The need of a definite educational program for Missouri is being emphasized by Charles A. Lee, state Superintendent of schools. The entire educational system of Missouri can hardly be brought up to a proper level unless such a program is worked out and adopted. The enterprise of one community may result in good schools, while the indifference of another may leave the children with limited chances to prepare themselves for the work of life. Poorly trained teachers, inadequate buildings and low standards will be found until there is general agreement on a state-wide school plan. Among other things Mr. Lee is proposing these changes as a part of a definite program:

A simplified and uniform method of licensing teachers, which will enable them to render greater service. Mr. Lee says there now are thirty-seven different kinds of teachers' certificates and 125 different certificating agencies.

A better compulsory attendance law. In some of the rural districts the present system works so ineffectively that children are not in school more than ten days in a whole year.

Some kind of equalization fund which will guarantee certain minimum educational facilities in each district of the state.

Co-operation in forming larger school units, and the better facilities that go with them. The Missouri system, now being built, is seen as an important aid in this direction.

A permanent school fund which will place the state educational institutions upon a solid financial basis and enable the state to assume a larger share of the cost of public education.

These proposals, in a general way, have been recognized as a necessity by many educational leaders of Missouri. This state still does not have the standing in its school work that its wealth and general resources warrant. The question calls for serious attention. Whether or not this particular program proves, in all respects, to be most feasible or desirable, a determined move should be made to give Missouri a higher educational rank.

Important Figures in Norris Murder Trial

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—Any proposal to level America's protective tariff wall, together with the protective tariff walls of other countries throughout the world, stands about as much chance of being adopted as the proposal to cancel Europe's war indebtedness to the United States.

That is to say, none at all.

Such is the almost unanimous verdict of public men now in Washington on the suggestion, from a group of the very most exalted among international bankers and industrialists, that protective tariffs are hampering world trade and that it would be best for all concerned to tear them down.

Not many of the national lawmakers are here at present, but the few who are on the ground probably furnish a pretty fair cross-section of congressional sentiment as a whole. If there were any substantial differences of opinion among them it might be harder to judge, but hardly a dissenting voice is heard, regardless of party or tariff views.

As Senator Borah puts it, a small group of Americans, with "large and increasing interests abroad," have now put forward three proposals, all of a piece, with a view to "augmenting the value of their foreign investments":

1—Entrance into the League of Nations.

2—Cancellation of war indebtedness.

3—Repeal of all tariff laws.

Borah isn't necessarily opposed to American tariff revision, but he wants revision, if any, undertaken in America's own interest and not in the interest of the rest of the world or of a few of America's own international bankers.

That sums up the whole consensus of opinion, so far as it can be estimated in Washington today.

Washington.—A divorce in three and a half minutes!

This isn't a Reno or Paris record. At Arlington county courthouse (Va.), on the fringe of Washington, is perhaps the busiest divorce mill in the country.

There are other mills throughout Virginia but none to equal Arlington county's, because that one is most conveniently situated with reference to ample supplies of raw material—big cities, like Washington and Baltimore.

The county is the smallest in the United States, which makes its enormous divorce mill all the more of a distinction.

It grinds once a week, on Saturday, for four hours, during which about 30 divorces usually are turned out.

Officials term the mill a disgrace, but they say they can't do anything about it under the present law.

Long before Judge Samuel G. Brent takes his seat, on "divorce day," the Arlington county courtroom always is jammed with petitioners.

First come, first served is the rule, and it's wise to be on hand promptly. There are sure to be more divorce applicants than can be heard before adjournment, and it means a week's delay to be left over.

Time sets the only limit on the number of decrees granted, and mighty little of that's wasted.

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs Goldie Shoup of May View, Illinois. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their housework easily, happy homes are the result.

Thousands of testimonial letters have been received from women in different walks of life, stating that the Compound has helped them.

Legion Auxiliary to Meet.

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Veterans Association clubrooms.

Club Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the Jolly Mixers has been postponed from tomorrow afternoon until Nov. 10, when the members will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Ward Stevenson.

Entertain at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Headrick entertained the following guests at dinner Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parent, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Palmer and Mrs. Mildred Powell and twin daughters, all of Maryville, James Palmer and daughter, Esther, of Quitman, Hazel, Dora, May and Marvin Parent, Mary Christina, Robert jr., and Josephine Powell, Thelma Milton, Minnie Archer, Glenn Archer, Paul Mowry, and Wilson Bradley. Mr. and Mrs. John Greeley and daughter, Mary Frances, were afternoon guests.

Tacky Party.

A tacky party for members of the Independence Industrial Club and their families was held at the Independence school Friday evening. Various contests were enjoyed. Myrtle Reynolds and Stanford Pence were awarded the prize for the tackiest dressed couple. Mrs. Will Simpson won the prize in the "hog calling" contest and Charles Hornbuckle and Marion Crawford were prize winners in the musical contest. The prize in the potato race went to Charley Wallace. Refreshments included chicken sandwiches, pumpkin pie, apple salad and coffee. Those present weer Mr. and Mrs. Ol Gregory and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Cable and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Pence and family, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gray and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace and son, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wallace and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Kellogg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gray and son, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Reynolds and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hornbuckle, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gray and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Patterson and son, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Thomas and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cox, Misses Mayme and Doris Holmes, Milton Donald, Max Hoy and Dale Farrens.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allen of Conception Junction announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothea Agnes, to Mr. Charles A. Growney of Conception Junction. The wedding will take place Wednesday, Nov. 17, at the Holy Family Church in Conception Junction. Mr. Growney is the son of John D. Growney of Conception Junction.

Celebrate Four Birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warner entertained with a dinner Sunday celebrating the birthday anniversaries of Dr. H. R. Juvenal and sons, Joseph and Charles, and their daughter, Belva Warner. A white birthday cage decorated with pink candles formed the centerpiece for the table. Places were arranged for Dr. and Mrs. Juvenal and sons, Joseph and Charles, and the hosts and children, Homer, Donald, Laura Ethel and Belva Warner.

Party for Girl Scouts.

A Hallowe'en party for the Girl Scouts was held Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kramer on North Main street. Games and dancing were the entertaining features. Those winning prizes in the various contests were: Catherine Wray, Cleola Dawson, Miss Ruth Bookman, Leota Clardy, Mildred Fryer and Ruth Miller. Refreshments of pumpkin pie, hot chocolate and marshmallows, and doughnuts were served by Margaret Leuck, Thelma Reimer and Wilhelmina Hansen, assisted by Mrs. Kramer, Mrs. J. W. N. Club Party.

The W. N. Club members and their families were entertained at a Hallowe'en marquerade party Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Amos Hayes and Mrs. Susan Hayes. The evening was spent in music and games, after which refreshments of wieners, sandwiches, pickles, pumpkin pie and coffee were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shield, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Griffey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Griffey, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Culver, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Culver, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Griffey, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. George Staten, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Peery, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Staten, Mr. and Mrs. George Sexson, Mrs. Nancy Cooper, Mrs. Emma Shield, Misses Roberta Arnold, Georgia Reed, Velma, Luella and Beulah Maier, Iola, Bernice and Beatrice Griffey, Pauline and Doris Lucille Griffey, Maxine Miller, Mary Trosper, Bonnie Louise Shield, Dorothy Lane, and Guy Culver, Robert Staten, Cecil Hayes, Emryhn and Kenneth Lee Griffey, Eldon Staten, Junior and Wilson Miller, Harold Sexson, Mrs. Susan Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hayes. The club will meet Thursday afternoon, Nov. 11, at the home of Mrs. Cleo Lane with Mrs. Ed Griffey as leader.

Jones-Seckington.

Miss Leona G. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jones of Maryville, became the bride of Fred B. Seckington, formerly of this city, Sunday evening, Oct. 31. The ceremony was solemnized at the parsonage of the First Christian Church in St. Joseph, Dr. C. M. Chilton performing the double ring service. Mr. Seckington is employed at the Nave-McCord Wholesale House in St. Joseph. The couple will be at home to their friends at 1016 Olive street, St. Joseph.

Tacky Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Zimmerman entertained members of the Knabb Country Club and their families at a tacky party last night at their home, west of Maryville. The guests were met at the basement door by "Charlie Chaplin" and with the aid of jack-o'-lanterns found their way to the main rooms. The rooms were attractively decorated with autumn leaves and were not fully illuminated until after the guests had all assembled. Mrs. Clark Lambert played for the grand march. Prizes were then awarded to Patches, Raggedy Ann and Orphan Annie, better known as John Knabb, Mrs. Charles Wells and Vivian Hall. Charades, hog and chicken calling contests and various other games followed. Refreshments included sandwiches, pickles, doughnuts, pie and coffee. Mrs. Robert Sawyears and son, Robert, Misses Grace Lancey, and Iris and Velma Goforth were guests, and the following members were present: Mr. and Mrs. Arch Willhoyte, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Willhoyte, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Knabb, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hardesty, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tebow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wells, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Smith of Graham, Misses Hazel and Virginia Moody, Margaret Moody, Charlotte Smith, and Marvin Moody, Leo Moody, Lester Smith, William Smith of St. Joseph, and Mr. and Mrs. Clay Moody.

Evening Auxiliary Meets.

The monthly meeting of the Evening Auxiliary, W. F. M. S. of the First Methodist Church, was held last night in the ladies' parlor of the church. The opening song was followed by reading of the 23rd Psalm and prayer. Roll call was responded to by fifteen members. The lesson was conducted by Miss May Howland, who gave a review of the first chapter of the text book. Miss Emma Hull gave a partial report of the Des Moines Branch convention held recently at Fort Dodge, Ia. After the program refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. H. Cooper and Miss May Howland.

Celebrate Wedding Anniversary.

A group of friends from Skidmore and Hopkins gave a basket dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Miller on West Third street in observance of their twenty-third wedding aniversary. A program of instrumental and vocal selections was given during the afternoon by Paschal Monk and Vernon Barrett. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Montgomery and daughter, Eleanor, Mrs. Amanda Hoblitzell, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Oakerson and son, Leland, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ceyer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kime-Snyder.

Miss Bertha Kime, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kime of Barnard, and Clarence Snyder, also of Barnard, were married in St. Joseph Saturday. The bride was graduated from the Barnard High School in last spring's class. The couple will live in Barnard where Mr. Snyder is a blacksmith.

Losers Entertain Winners.

The boys in the Sunday School class of the Presbyterian Church, taught by Mrs. Fred Stephenson, entertained the girls of Mrs. Frank Sims' class Saturday afternoon at the country home of Henry Zimmerman, west of Maryville. The affair was the result of a two months' attendance contest in which the boys were losers. Various games were enjoyed and a picnic supper was served. Seventeen members of the two classes were present.

'Lection Day's Not What It Used To Be, Says Old Timer

"Ah, election day is not what it used to be," sighed Cooper Gooden, Maryville's 86-year-old journalist who signed himself "Fly-by Day" in the old weekly Nodaway Democrat published by the late James Todd, as he went to cast his vote today.

"Women and no booze," have caused the change, he declared. Cooper has voted 65 years and, in his own words, "I never missed my vote and I never voted twice in the same election."

And then Cooper began to "reminisce":

"We certainly painted the town red when Cleveland was elected. We just had a deuce of a time. In that election just like all the others we would ride all over the county just like fools—and I was among them.

"One thing that I shall always remember about the Blaine-Cleveland election is this: Frank Owens was county treasurer. He stood in a wagon in front of the courthouse and said these words: 'I am glad that the grave is not closed over me and I still am able to lift up my voice against the dismemberment of the grand old Democratic Party.' Mr. Owens has been dead many years, but I still remember that fine thing he said," Cooper explained.

"We used to have wild times around here on election. Everybody would get drunk. I can remember when my father was 'cashier.' I was a little boy and went with him one day. The men would bring voters in, give them $1, $5 or $10 for their votes. It was a common thing then.

"They thought for a long time that they couldn't hold elections without rum," he said.

The ballots used to be small before the new system was effective, he explained, just a few inches long.

Others today told about the days after the Civil War when a Republican took a rifle to the polls with him. "He wasn't safe without it around here," it was declared.

"Both sides, the Republicans and Democrats are rotten," Cooper believes, "but the Democrats are less rotten."

"In the old days we didn't begin to count the votes until we were all through with the election. Then the judges would appoint a clerk to bring the votes to Maryville on horseback. The rider would get here about daybreak. Of course it's all different now days.

"You know the women could have the ruling power in this country if they would stand together. It's tame anymore."

Cooper has voted the Democratic ticket for 65 years.

This and That

Election day recalled to Mayor W. O. Garrett today a city election which took place twenty-five years ago, when William Garrett, father of the present mayor, and W. R. Smiley were unwilling candidates for the mayoralty.

Mr. Garrett had been nominated by the Republicans and Mr. Smiley by the Democrats, although neither had sought the honor. Before the election, they got together and decided to "teach a lesson" to certain political workers who were in the habit of exacting tribute from the various candidates.

Bright and early on election day, one of the "ward heelers" sought out Mr. Smiley and imparted the message that if he had a gallon of whisky he could deliver at least ten votes.

"Well, now, I'm a good Christian, and I couldn't do anything like that," the present mayor quotes Mr. Smiley as saying. "But I'll tell you what to do. You go and see Garrett. He'll be glad to do it for you."

The emissary looked puzzled, but he hastened to the Garrett home. Meanwhile, Mr. Smiley had telephoned a warning.

Mr. Garrett, when the proposal had been made to him, said, very seriously:

"No, I decided I wouldn't do anything like that and I won't. But you go back and see Smiley. He just telephoned me that he had changed his mind."

So the thirsty one hurried back to Mr. Smiley, only to be met with:

"No, I guess I can't do it, after all. But wait a minute—" and he went in to answer the telephone. "Garrett tells me he thinks maybe he's made a mistake and for you to come over there."

And doubtful but still with a ray of hope, the would-be boss once more retraced his route, only to find at the end that he was being fooled. There were others who came to one or the other of the candidates and they met a similar fate.

Mr. Smiley at that time had a lumber yard just west of the First Christian Church. A man came to him there and said:

"Smiley, I'm a Republican, but you're a friend of mine and I'm going to vote for you."

"You say you really are a friend of mine?" Mr. Smiley asked him.

"Yes, sir, and I'm going to scratch my ticket and vote for you," the friend responded.

"Listen," said the candidate. "If you really are a friend of mine and want to do me a favor, you go and vote for Garrett."

And, convinced, the man went away saying, "All right, Mr. Smiley, if you say so, I'll do it."

Mr. Garrett was elected.

"Well, by jiminy, I don't see that it makes any difference," said one observer of the Smiley-Garrett race. "They'll run the city together anyhow."

"And I've no doubt that many a time my father did seek counsel of Mr. Smiley," said the present mayor. "They were great friends."

Another legend of Maryville politics describes a "race" for alderman in the third ward a number of years ago, in which Charles McNeal, now a resident of Texas, was one of the candidates. On election day, Mr. McNeal was an ardent worker for his opponent, but the final result was "McNeal by two votes."

Judge E. T. Bailey was returning from his farm at Elmo, Saturday night when a wolf ran out in front of his car. It ran ahead of the machine and finally was hit by the car and killed. Judge Bailey feels that somehow that wolf spelled good luck for him in the election today.

P. S. Judge Bailey insists that it was a wolf, not a black cat.

The Long Bob Is the Mode, Declare Local Specialists

"The long bob is the thing."

For once, at least, beauty shops have ordered just what the young miss and her mother want.

"Wear the sides of your bob longer below the ears—and the back short," is the advice give by authorities on bobbed hair here. Both mothers and daughters seem well pleased with the style—one because it's the thing and the other because it is really more flattering.

"The boy hair cut is out," one specialist proprietor said today. "It is my opinion that by far the big majority of the girls and women will allow their hair to grow well below the ears and either get a permanent or train it so that it won't look wild. The shingle is to convenient and also too becoming to be easily discarded. The new mode can be dressed very prettily for evening affairs, too. Combs or false hair and pins solve the difficulties."

"Hair is still bobbed, though," it was said, "and probably will stay bobbed for many years."

"Coolidgeism" Put to Test

Wet candidates for senator are running against drys in Massachusetts, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Both senatorial opponents in New York, Maryland and Missouri are wets, although charges have been bandied back and forth about the fidelity of some of the candidates to the wet cause. Anti-prohibition leaders have predicted that the votes counted this afternoon will enlarge the wet delegation in both Houses of Congress.

Two senatorial candidates who voted for the world court have changed their minds during the campaign and are seeking re-election upon their opposition to American adherence to the tribunal. These are Senator Cameron, Republican Arizona and Gooding, Republican Idaho.

In some localities the world court is an issue along with the Ku Klux Klan, waterways, the tariff and other matters.

But if there is any concentration upon one matter it is the general use of "prosperity" and Mr. Coolidge's name by Republicans and the general cry of Democrats for tariff revision, tax reduction and against what they call the "prosperity myth."

In years past, the weather had a lot to do with congressional and even presidential elections. Before paved roads ribboned the country so generally, farmers were reluctant to go to town to vote if rain had mired the byways. Now, however, a rainy day makes it impossible to work in the field and farmers go to town for their own amusements. The city vote likewise is affected by the weather only to a small extent. A general rain over the country, however, might have the influence of reducing the general total of ballots by a million or more.

BEARCATS TO FINISH HERE

NO MORE ROAD TRIPS FOR S. T. C. ELEVEN.

BACK TO HARD GRIND

Coaches Impose a Gruelling Work-Out and Shake-Up Brings Big Lineman Into Backfield.

"If anyone should get the blame for the Kirksville score being 50 to 7 in favor of Kirksville last Friday, it should be the coaches," H. Frank Lawrence, director of athletics at the State Teachers College, said this afternoon.

"One of the chief duties of a coach is to keep up the morale of his team and to keep it in a fighting spirit. I neglected to do this Friday to as great an extent as I should have.

"Therefore I take most of the blame and the rest of it Pete Jones assumes.

"And now, about this game Friday. I'll just say that the defeat of last week should make the Bearcats fight like the dickens. If they play football as they can, then we'll not be ashamed of any scores. But—if they play any more football like that displayed at Kirksville—boy, page the jackstraw salesman."

With the away-from-home football season a thing of the past, the State Teachers College Bearcats are being pointed for three games at home, the first of which is on Friday afternoon when the St. Benedicts College eleven of Atchison, Kan., will be entertained. On November 11, Warrensburg will be here for the annual Armistice Day game, and on Thanksgiving Day the Bearcats will play host to Tarkio.

The Bearcat practice last night witnessed a slight shake-up in the College team. Following the defeat of last Friday at Kirksville, the Bearcats were put through a long, gruelling drill.

Before the practice, Paul R. Jones, line coach, spoke briefly concerning the Kirksville game.

"Our team did not play the brand of football it is capable of displaying," he said. "Had they been up to the high pitch they attained in the Springfield game the week before, I believe that Kirksville would have won by a much closer score. They had a dazzling offense. We cannot minimize their strength. In passing particularly they showed a great deal of class.

"I believe that they will trounce Warrensburg this week and will down Springfield later."

The major part of the practice yesterday was devoted to signal running by two teams and to hitting the charging machine by the remainder of the squad. In the latter department, Coach Jones was the taskmaster, and he rode the machine throughout, while players, three at a time, showed the bunglesome contraption around the field.

One of the outstanding shake-ups yesterday was that "Fat" Lewis, 210 pound tackle, was used in the backfield part of the time. This big husky was schooled in running and passing, while others of the regular backfield occupied positions on the second team.

During part of the practice, the two coaches, Lawrence and Jones, ran signals with the teams. Each played the center position, and speed was the requisite. No sooner had one play been worked than another was called. There was no let-up.

Captain Eads confined his practicing to booting the pigskin for about an hour. The day before the Kirksville game a physician announced that Eads was suffering from a broken shoulder. A part of the bone is chipped off, he said. This means that the fleet little halfback will likely be on the sidelines until the Warrensburg game.

No announcement has been made concerning officials for Friday's game, which will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Rock Port High School Slate Clean

Rock Port, Mo., Nov. 2.—The Rock Port high school football team has taken on new life this year under the tutelage of Coach C. E. Conway, a former 3-letter man at William Jewell college. They have proved to be equally strong on the defense and the offense, having scored 156 points to their opponents' none in four games.

It is just a typical high school team, having an average weight of 151 pounds and an average age of 16 years. Rock Port would like to arrange games with some winning team in the Northwest Missouri conference or the Northeast Kansas conference for its open dates, November 19 and 25. Get in touch with Coach C. E. Conway at Rock Port, Mo.

One-Act Play Given at Zeta Sigma Meet

Other Literary Societies at Maryville High School Give Varied Program at Regular Meetings.

"To Tell or Not to Tell," a one-act play written by Mildred Sandison and directed by her, was presented this morning to the Zeta Sigma Literary Society of the Maryville High School.

The cast follows:

Phil, Marzella Clary; Jean, Charmion Murray; Joyce, Mary Jackson; Virginia, Beatrice Puckett; Marjorie, Martha Wyman; Lucille, Otha Sutterlin; Ellen, Mary Donna Malotte; Ruth, Ellen Wiles.

Following the play a review was given of "Show Boat," the latest book of Edna Ferber.

The program at the Victorian Literary Society was made up mostly of poetry reading. Their program follows:

Songs, society; vocal solo, Virginia Bennett; poems, Iola Hull, Gladys Middleton, Gertrude Isom, Eudora Smith and Opal Hawkins.

Officers are elected at the Elizabethean Literary Society every nine weeks. An election was held this morning and Eva Bailey was chosen as president; Ola Coates, vice-president; Frances Shamberger, secretary; Floy Hall, reporter. A program committee was chosen. They are Delberta Mutz, Helen Palmer and Ruth Miller. Laura Warner was made the society cheer leader.

Richard Sellers was elected this morning as vice-president of the Maryvillian Literary Society to succeed the outgoing officer. Short current event talks were given by Frances Daniels, Walter Taylor, Vilas Spoore and Carl Price.

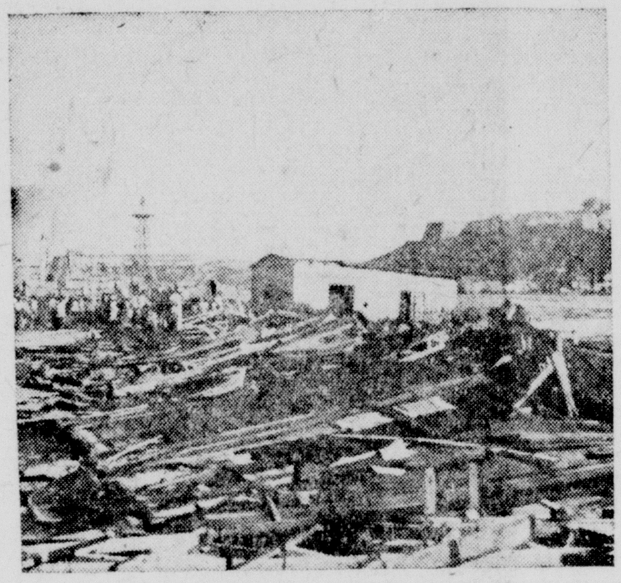
Pat Mc Dermott's Hiding Place

In this shack in the western Pennsylvania mountains, Pat McDermott, suspect in the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton (O.) publisher, is said to have hidden during the last ten days of his freedom. He was captured by Detective Ora Slater after his family had revealed his hiding place.

Florida's Fate for Havana



A vista of the elemental devastation visited upon the Cuban capital is shown in this picture, the first to arrive in the United States. The hurricane, which took hundreds of lives and destroyed property reaching into the millions throughout the island republic, laid flat many waterfront structures in Havana. In the foreground is a razed wharf house and dock with Morro Castle and La Cabana in the background.

Conception Wins.

The Conception Junction high school boys defeated the Gaynor quintette at Gaynor, by a score of 21 to 10, Thursday evening. Both teams played good basketball.

To Rochester.

Mrs. Bessie Matlock, Clearmont, who has been ill for three months with neuritis following an operation was taken to Rochester, Minn., last night, where she will undergo examination at Mayo Brothers.

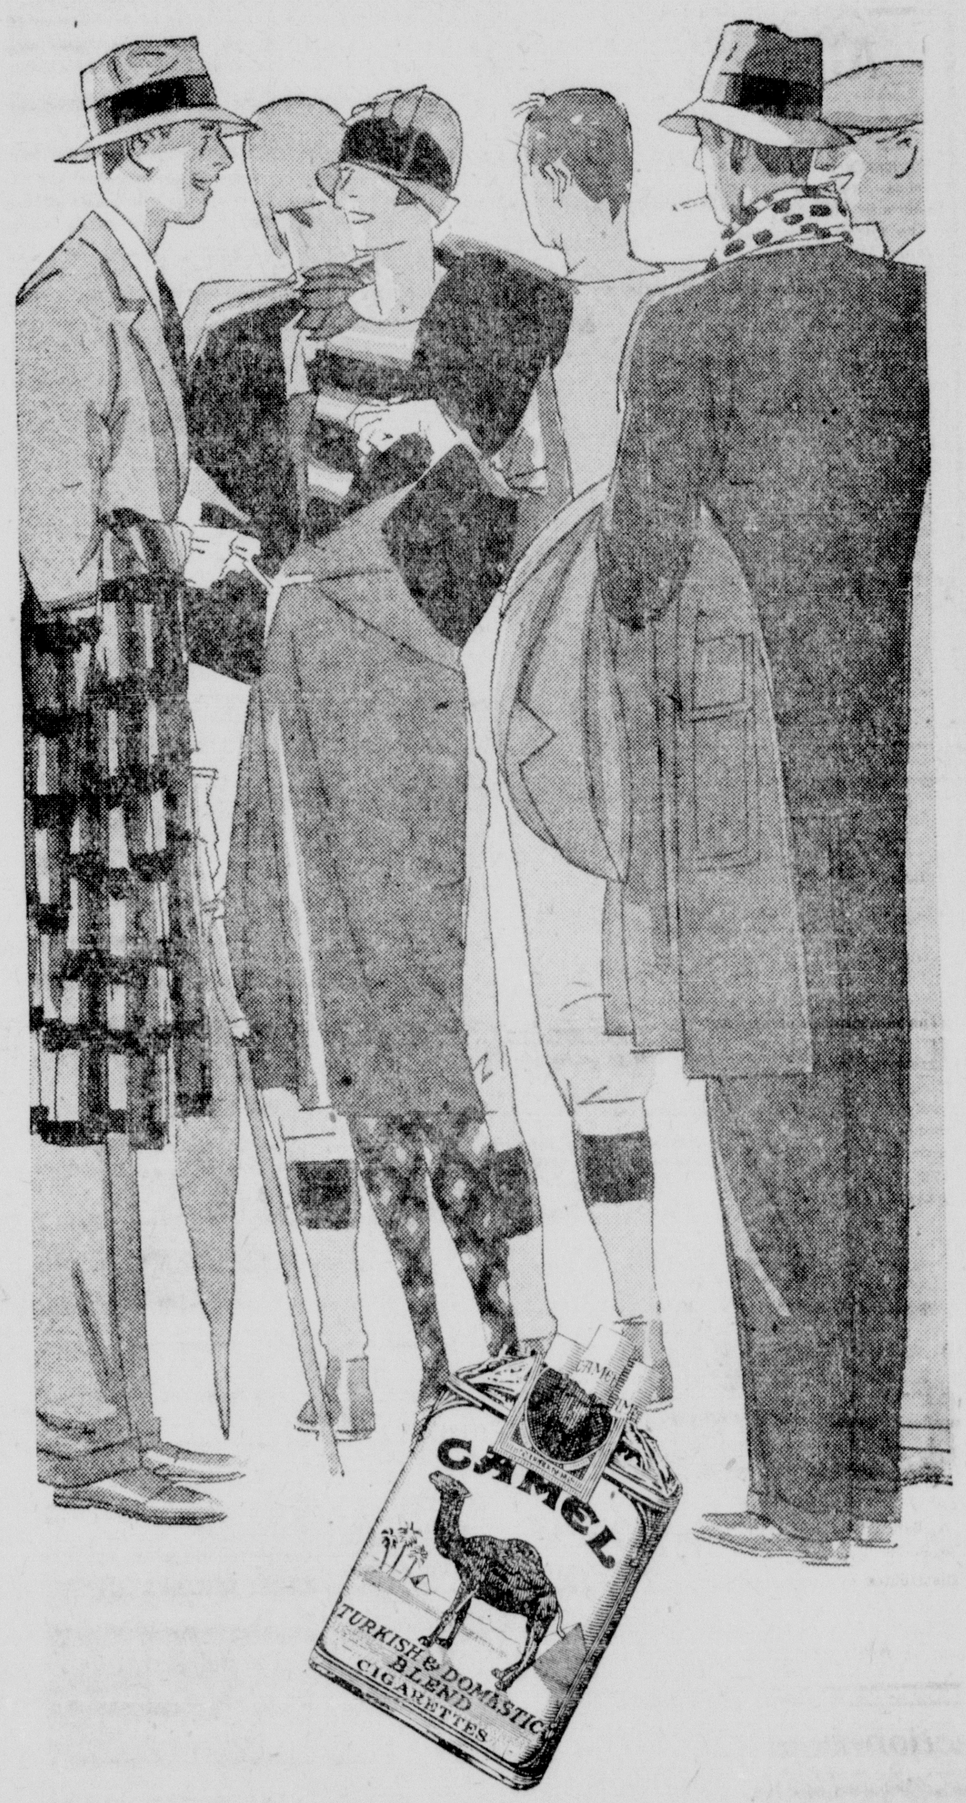
"HAVE A CAMEL" INVITES YOU TO THE WORLD'S MOST POPULAR SMOKE



In popularity with smokers, no other cigarette is within a thousand miles of Camel. Camels have been rewarded with the greatest favor any cigarette ever enjoyed. In all the history of smoking, there was never such a growing preference as for this cigarette.

There is but one reason for the increasing fame of Camels — tobacco goodness.

From the beginning, Camel has made its way by quality. The choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos and endless care for perfection are the meaning of Camels, and Camel quality. As new millions try them all, as they become experienced smokers, they come home to Camels.

Camel mildness and mellowness are made for your taste. . . . They will bring you the utmost smoking pleasure. Try them now. For a smoke that never tires the taste, literally never leaves a cigaretty after-taste—"Have a Camel!"

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

JUDITH MARTIN, young, red-haired, beautiful, arriving to teach in Pendleton University meets an earnest man who rescues her bandbox on the train, but refuses to enter into conversation with her.

As she steps from the train at Pendleton station, a strange young man giant, green-eyed, seizes her, kisses her and without a word thrusts her into a taxi and vanishes.

At her boarding house, Judith makes friends with MYRA ALDRICH, a spoiled beauty, who confides that she is in school to be near one ERIC WATERS. She says that if she loses him, she will kill herself.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.

"But why this desperate resolve?" asked Judith, smiling.

"It would be far better than living without him," Myra answered. "And he's so inconstant. He really can't help it. So I have to help it for him."

Judith looked thoughtful. "I wonder if you or anybody else can rule love," she said. "I rather doubt it."

Myra lifted her head. Her eyes were smoldering. "Don't you say that! I've got to rule it, and I'm going to. I tell you if I don't hold him, I'll kill myself, —and I'm too young and beautiful to die."

Mrs. Stedway's breakfast table was characterized as "delightfully informal," in her letters to prospective boarders.

Informal it surely was. Judith decided on her first morning. Everyone straggled in at her own sweet will, ate much or little according to the amount of time left before the first class, tried to make conversation, and then hurried off joyously, from the dingy linen and the blue milk in the cream jugs and dreary faces of the two white-aproned young men who "jumped tables" for their board.

The breakfast table group as Judith saw it first included three giggling freshmen in varying stages of undress; the two Misses Reasey, who talked of prospective doctor's degrees; Caroline McGonigle, an irresponsible sophomore from up-state, and the pale Lillian Stedway. Myra was nowhere in sight.

When Miss Stedway had introduced her, Judith applied most of her attention to her cereal. The talk went on jerkily around her.

"Oh, Amy, did 'ja hear? We've got to keep the rules like anything this year. They say the new discipline dean's a holy teror," The freshman who launched this remark sank back into her oatmeal, before the withering glances of the pure Misses Reasey.

"I hope you slept well, Miss Martin," said Lillian Stedway. "I see your blankets arrived."

"Yes," Judith replied. "I was very comfortable. Miss Aldrich slept with me. Hers hadn't come yet."

The eyebrows of the Misses Reasey and Miss Stedway went up. Evidently Myra had already struck sparks from opposing metals in this group.

Coming down the steps an hour later, Judith met Myra. The girl was wearing an orange sweater and a scarf whose Roman stripes flammed out in the dusk of the hall.

"Good morning," said Judith. "You're the first pleasant sight I've seen today."

"I've been for a dawn tramp with my Norseman," cried Myra. "Didn't you wake up when I sneaked out so early? Where are you going?"

"Over to the campus," said Judith. "Will you come along?"

"No. Have to unpack. We had breakfast in the duckiest place on the road. Think they call it Blue Moon, or something. I've no doubt it's a dire, wicked place at night. But for breakfast—um-m-m, baked apples, waffles, sausages and drip coffee with clotted cream."

"Hush," exclaimed Judith. "I've just eaten at the Stedway board."

Myra made a face and ran on up the stairs.

Judith found the streets filled with students, all in that careless holiday mood that attends the opening of each term, when old friendships are renewed, new ones launched, and old feuds revived.

She reached the campus half an hour before the time set for the meeting. The administration building loomed ahead, set at the end of the quadrangle, presiding with its absurd fly-away dome over buildings of more recent date and purer architecture.

In the center of the quadrangle were some long mounds of green some five feet higher than the surrounding land.

Judith was almost opposite the nearest mound when someone suddenly rose to a sitting position on top of it.

The figure was larger than the ordinary. It wore a pair of curduory trousers, a blue sweater, a Bowery cap and a briar pipe. It rose and came toward her. And as it lifted its cap at short range, Judith met a pair of green eyes that set her heart to pounding. Unconsciously, she stepped back, and then marched straight ahead as though she had not seen him. The figure fell into step beside her.

"Morning like this makes that old rot of Browning's about 'the lark on the wing, hillside's dew-pearled,' sound little less rotten, doesn't it?"

Judith walked on, eyes straight ahead and lips rather firm.

"Pretty blatant optimism," continued the voice from under the Bowery cap. "After all, nobody ever wrote about morning as old Bootblack Homer did—'the rosy-fingered dawn'. Gosh, what a metaphor!"

Judith still stalked a little ahead. The man was about to quote more poetry, undismayed, when Judith turned abruptly into a side path and left him.

It took only a very small sprint to bring him up with her again. "Speaking of dawn and things, have you had your morning waffles?" He was standing in front of her now.

"No, but I've had my morning oatmeal and coffee. And now, I am going to take my morning stroll—alone."

The conference room was almost full when Judith entered it. She took a seat by the window, under the faintly reproachful gaze of the short, heavy man who stood at the table on the dais.

About a third of the faculty members present were women of uncertain age, mostly wearing stocks and plain white silk short waists, though one or two "arty" smocks enlivened the picture.

"Members of the faculty of liberal arts," said a dry, meticulous voice from the platform, "we are here to discuss such general problems as confront us in the opening of a year which we hope will be the most successful, pedagogically speaking, ever enjoyed by this department of the university."

The room was listening. Judith saw three elderly gentlemen draw forth folded handkerchiefs and wipe their glasses as if by signal.

The speaker stared reproachfully. Hands folded on stomach, he began to speak again. "By making me chairman of the discipline committee, the president has shown a trust—"

Judith turned and looked out the window. Far away on the mounds, a tiny human figure was visible. It lay on its back, with one knee crossed over the other one, pointing toward heaven.

A slight stir at the back of the room as a late comer entered did not rouse her. She did not turn around until the newcomer was seating himself in the chair beside her.

As she turned, his Phi Beta Kappa key clacked against the wooden arm of his chair, and he hastily jerked it back.

Judith looked up at him and spoke in a stage whisper. "Thank you so much. It didn't hit her on the head any more after you fixed it."

The gray tweeds started. "I beg your pardon. What—"

"The bandbox," said Judith."

The steady drone of Dean Timothy Brown went on for hours, it seemed to Judith, before he ended his speech with an announcement. "Dr. Peter Dorn—" all eyes turned toward the man at her side—"Dr. Peter Dorn of the astronomy department will take over the duties of chief of the Big Brother movement in the college."

The crowd was stirring, anxious to leave. Dean Brown rapped on the table. "We shall expect the hearty co-operation of every faculty member in making Pendleton University morally clean and safe for the youth of the state."

Dr. Dorn followed Judith into the hall. "I really did want to thank you for squiring my bandbox," she said to him, laughingly. "But there wasn't much chance. The dean wanted to do all the talking."

Someone ran up to them and caught Judith by the arm. "'Scuse me for interrupting, but I want you to come to tea with me over at the Prairie Schooner, Jude." The professor stepped back before Judith could introduce them, and Myra pulled her gaily off down the corridor.

"Well," said Myra, "I rescued you that time. Old baggy-knee must be a professor, or something. You don't want the faculty hanging around, my dear. They'll scare off the real men. That's what you get for looking intellectual. Heaven knows you're handsome enough, with that flaming hair, but you'll have to cultivate the beautiful-but-dumb expression, if you want a frat rush."

They seated themselves at a corner stall in the Prairie Schooner, and were just beginning to drink their tea when a shout came from across the room. "Hi, there, Snow White, Blood Red and Ebony Black."

The mouse-colored Will Wetherel was addressing brunet Myra. She smiled at him over a suspended tea cup.

"Have you heard the latest about your very fine Eric Waters?" he shouted.

Myra shook her head apprehensively.

"Today he was ducked in the fish pond by the Vigilantes, and yesterday he won a bet of $20 by kissing the prettiest girl that got off the seven o'clock train."

(To Be Continued).

Judith discovers in the next chapter that Eric Waters is in the Latin class she is teaching. Meanwhile Myra is burning to discover what girl it was that Eric kissed.

KIDNEY STONE A CAUSE OF RENAL COLIC

When Solids Accumulate in the Secretion From the Kidney a Barrier Often Forms Which Causes Trouble in the Digestive Tract.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Sedentary occupations have their peculiar health hazards. One of them is kidney obstruction or accumulation, called "stonee" or "calculus" or "concretion." Instead of remaining in the solution and being carried along by the kidney current, the solid materials accumulate in the cavity of the kidney.

Lack of exercise, laziness, and sedentary occupation predispose to this trouble. Office workers, manicurists, bookkeepers, stenographers, business men much at the desk, and especially wine drinkers and heavy eaters, are apt to be affected.

At first the concretions are small, like sand. When a bit larger they are called "gravel."

If particles of sand-like substance appear in the urine as it is passed, and if at the same time there is dull pain in the loin, you must suspect kidney stone. This diagnosis will be confirmed if blood is seen in the urine.

Connecting each kidney with the bladder is a narrow tube, about eighteen inches long, called the "ureter." When a calculus the size of a pea or bean or larger begins its passage through one of the ureters, it is easy to see why the pain is excessive. This is "kidney colic" or "renal colic."

The attack of colic comes on suddenly. The patient may awaken from sleep with the pain. It may appear after lifting or violent exercise. A tennis player is sometimes caught in the midst of a game. A hod carrier may be attacked as he climbs the ladder.

The pain is felt first in the loin or groin. It extends to the back and abdomen. The suffering becomes intense. There may be fainting, nausea and vomiting. The face is bathed in perspiration. The pulse fails and the patient collapses.

There are other troubles that give similar symptoms. For instance, intestinal colic may be quite as severe and quite like renal or kidney colic.

You may be called upon by a distracted neighbor to help care for some person thus afflicted. The doctor will be sent for of course. In the meantime there are home measures of possible value.

Get the patient into a hot bath, running the water hot as can be borne. Or apply hot compresses. Hot drinks are comforting.

Try placing the patient in different positions. Some particular posture may relieve.

Capsicum vaseline applied over the abdomen and the parts then covered with a hot towel, may help.

The worst thing about renal colic is that it is likely to recur. One attack is but the beginning. Until the original trouble is removed the victim is never quite safe from the danger of a recurrence.

The diet and habits of the patient must be regulated. He must give up rich, highly seasoned and indigestible food. Exercise, fresh air, and all the natural methods for building up health must be employed.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

M. T. C. Q.—What will prevent a double chin?

A.—Massage might help to some extent. Reducing in general is also effective in most instances. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

K. H. Q.—Is neuritis cureable in middle age—what causes it and what will give relief?

A.—Yes. It is usually due to some infection in the system. Application of heat will usually give relief until the source of infection has been located. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mrs. M. K. L. Q.—After walking a short distance I feel tired and have an aching sensation in my legs and feet. I have the same feeling when I rise after being seated for a short time. What is the cause of this and what will relieve it?

2.—My little boy aged 10½ years old, is 3 ft. 5 in. tall, and weighs 61 pounds. Is this sufficient weight for him

A.—This condition may be due to auto-intoxication or self-poisoning by waste products that are absorbed instead of properly thrown off by the body. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—Yes.

President Coolidge Puts His Stamp of Approval on Advertising

Mass Production and Mass Demand Have Been Created By Advertising, Which Is the Life of Trade, Chief Executive Says.

Speaking last Thursday at the annual banquet of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, the President held itwould not be remiss to describe advertising as the "life of trade" and as the foundation for "much of the success of the American industrial system."

"The pre-eminence of American industry, which has constantly brought about a reduction of costs," the President asserted, "has come very largely through mass production. Mass production is only possible where there is mass demand. MASS DEMAND HAS BEEN CREATED ALMOST ENTIRELY THROUGH THE DEVELOPMENT OF ADVERTISING.

"In former days goods were expected to sell themselves. Modern business could neither have been created nor can it be maintained on such a system. It is not enough that goods are made, a demand for them must also be made. It is on this foundation of enlarging production through the demands created by advertising that much of the success of the American industrial system rests.

"It will occur at once that the conditions under which these results have been secured should be maintained. It is our high rate of wages which brings about the greatest distribution of wealth that the world has ever seen and provides the enormous capacity for the consumption of all kinds of commodities which characterizes our country."

Hogs Sell High, But Check Is Worthless

Rosendale Farmer Gives 14 Head to Stranger for $409.25, but Is Unable to Get the Money.

(St. Joseph News-Press)

C. W. Ware, a farmer living near Rosendale, Mo., has asked the St. Joseph police to help him locate a hog buyer who purchased fourteen hogs from him last Friday.

Ware told the police that a man came to his farm Friday and made him a good offer for fourteen hogs which he wanted to sell. Ware accepted, and took a check for $409.25, drawn on a bank at Mapleton, Iowa.

The man loaded the hogs on a truck and drove away.

The farmer Saturday was told that the check was worthless and appealed to Sheriff Carter of Andrew County and the police here to aid him in the search for the man.

The police learned that the hogs were sold to a South End commission firm, but that they have found no trace of the man who sold them.

REAL FUSION.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—A tip for some Democratic candidates living in Republican strongholds may be gleaned from the congressional race in this district.

Two years ago Rep. Robert H. Clancy, Dem., Mich., was defeated by a Republican, John B. Sosnowski. In the primary this year, Clancy turned Republican and defeated Sosnowski for the Republican nomination.

Now the former Democrat with the Republican congressional nomination of the first Michigan District (Detroit) is being opposed in the election by William M. Donnelly, Democrat.

If Clancy is elected he will have the unique record of having served this district in congress both as a Democrat and as a Republican.

MAINE LOOKS ON.

Portland, Me., Nov. 2.—The only state in the United States which is not holding its congressional election today is Maine.

In accordance with traditional custom and law this state held its election alone on Sept. 13 and re-elected its four Republican representatives.

A special primary was held yesterday to choose senatorial candidates for an election Nov. 29, to choose a successor to the late Senator Bert M. Fernald, Republican who died several weeks ago. His term would not have expired until 1931.

Columbia.—Athetic officials believe the largest crowd in the history of the university will attend the Missouri-Kansas game Nov. 20.

Louisiana.—Workmen are now erecting office building for the firm that has contract for substructure of bridge across Mississippi river.

CATTLE AND LAMBS STRONGER. HOGS EASIER.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Nov. 1.—Receipts of cattle were below expectations and the fact that the run diminished after killing frosts, instead of increasing, indicates that the big percent of the grass cattle have been marketed. However the congested condition and big decline in Chicago tended to cut down the supply of fat cattle at all markets. Here fat classes were in limited supply and stockers and feeders predominated. Hogs were quoted steady to 10 cents lower, more steady than lower. Sheep and lambs sold readily at strong prices. Nothing choice was offered.

Today's Receipts.

Receipts today were 27,000 cattle, 7,500 hogs and 5,000 sheep, compared with 29,000 cattle, 6500 hogs and 9,000 sheep a week ago, and 30400 cattle, 8,000 hogs and 4,125 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.

In proportion to total arrivals of cattle fat grades were in limited supply. Nothing prime was offered and only a few bunches at $9 to $10.50 graded good. Trading opened early at strong prices and soon developed a 15 to 25 cent advance. Grass fat and short fed grades showed the advance. Killers were more anxious for the offerings than at any time last week, and if receipts are held down in Chicago the rest of this week there will be a chance for a general advance. No full fed steers arrived. Some good fed steers sold at $9 to $10.50 and steers warmed up on grass at $8 to $8.75. Straight grass fat steers brought $6 to $8.25. Cows and heifers were strong to 15 cents higher. Short fed cows sold at $6.50 to $7. Grass fat cows brought $4.75 to $6.50, canners and cutters $3.75 to $4.75; grass heifers, $5.75 to $8, and short fed heifers $7.50 to $9.50. Prime heifers were lacking. Veal calves were stronger.

Stockers and Feeders.

Demand for stockers and feeders remained active at firm prices. Several large bunches of choice New Mexico, Texas and Colorado stockers brought $8 to $8.50. Feeders sold at $6 to $8. Stock calves were stronger, selling up to $8.75. Receipts remained fairly liberal.

Hogs.

Hog prices were steady to 10 cents lower than last week's close, more steady than lower. Indications are that the market will hold to about the present level for the next few weeks. While the winter packing season has started the controlling factor in the hog market is the fresh pork trade. Today 180 to 240 pound hogs sold at $12.75 to $12.90; 240 to 280 pounds $12.40 to $12.75; 280 to 325 pounds $12 to $12.40; 140 to 170 pounds, $12 to $12.65; packing sows $10 to $11.25; stock hogs and pigs $12 to $12.75.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep and lambs sold readily at firm prices. Western lambs brought $13.50 to $13.75; short fed lambs $13.50; native lambs $12.50 to $13.25; culls and common $8 to $10; yearlings $9.50 to $10.50; wethers $7.25 to $8.50; ewes $5 to $6.50, feeding lambs $12.50 to $13.25.

Horses and Mules.

Moderate receipts of horses and mules continue to sell readily at steady prices.

TWO INCOMES OF $500,000

GOVERNMENT COLLECTED IN 1924 $41,766,461 IN MISSOURI.

360 MADE FROM HERE

In Nodaway County There Were 328 Returns Under $5,000 Incomes—27 From $5,000 to $10,000.

Washington, Nov. 2.—During 1925 residents and corporations in Missouri paid into the United States Treasury $41,766,461 in income, corporation, capital stock and estate taxes, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announced in an analysis of 1924 tax returns.

Of this amount contributed by Missourians, $12,373,492 was paid by 186,768 individuals as a tax on their incomes; $26,039,340 was paid by corporations; $2,597,892 was a capital stock tax on yearly gains up to June 30, 1925, and $755,737 was paid as an estate tax.

In Nodaway County there were 360 individual returns. Under $5,000 incomes, there were 328 returns; $5,000 to $10,000, 27 returns and $10,000 and over, 5.

Last year in Missouri there was a decrease in the number of individuals making returns on incomes for 1924 with subsequent loss in revenue in comparison with the returns for 1923. In 1924 192,282 individuals filed returns and paid taxes amounting to $13,085,218. Last year 186,784 individuals made returns and paid $12,373,942 in taxes. The decrease in the number of individuals was 5,498 and the loss in taxes $711,726. There was an increase in net incomes, however, of $27,257,412, as the 1924 returns revealed a total net income of $632,532,962, while the 1923 returns showed a total of $605,275,520. The average for those filing returns for 1923 was $68 and for 1924, $66.

Returns in St. Louis.

The City of St. Louis itself accounted for 92,954 of the 186,784 returns and St. Louis County was responsible for 9913. Thus these two contiguous areas, in reality a unit, made more than half the returns of the entire state.

In the City of St. Louis, 82,811 of the returns were for net incomes under $5,000; 6299 were for incomes between $5,000 and $10,000, and 3844 were for $10,000 and over.

In the entire state, there were two persons with incomes between $500,000 and $750,000; one with an income between $400,000 and $500,000; seven with incomes between $300,000 and $400,000; four with incomes between $250,000 and $300,000; ten with incomes between $200,000 and $250,000; 12 with incomes between $150,000 and $200,000 and 54 with incomes between $100,000 and $150,000. There was no indication in the Treasury report where these Missourians lived, but some, at least, were residents of St. Louis or the county.

The Corporation Tax.

The Federal corporation tax of $26,039,340 was paid by 8906 Missouri corporations last year on their 1924 incomes which amounted to $225,899,300. This was an increase of $256,868 on the taxes collected in 1924, when the taxes amounted to $25,782,472. This increase cannot be taken as a measure of prosperity because 6233 corporations, an increase of 689 corporations over 1924, reported total deficits of $56,248,620.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, 12,978 returns were filed in Missouri to meet the capital stock tax. The value of the stock represented by these returns was $2,597,891,633 and the tax was $2,597,892.

In analyzing the estate tax, returns made by Missourians, the report showed that 320 such returns had been filed by Missourians between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31, 1925. These returns represented an aggregate of $57,014,580. Of this number, 248 were subject to the tax, which amounted to $755,737.

No figures were given for Missouri concerning the Federal gift tax.

MANY TO VOTE ON PROHIBITION

REFERENDUM BEING CONDUCTED IN EIGHT STATES.

ASKS CHANGE IN LAW

New York Proposal Is To Urge Congress to Modify Volstead Measure—Indirect Expressions Provided.

New York, Nov. 2.—One-third of the voters of the United States today had an opportunity to record their personal convictions on prohibition by direct votes that will carry at least the weight of formal and officials beliefs of the people in shaping the nation's legislature course on the problem.

The referendums being conducted in eight populous States today may not have any legal significance but they will serve as guideposts for possible future action by Congress.

Varying questions about prohibition were submitted to the voters of New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, California, Colorado, Missouri, Montana and Nevada.

The New York referendum is generally considered the most important, being a direct memorial to Congress. The question is:

"Should the Congress of the United States modify the Federal Act to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation or exportation of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective States?"

The Volstead Act provides that beverages of more than one-half of one percent alcoholic content are intoxicating, while wets contend that beverages of a much larger alcoholic content are not "in fact" intoxicating.

The voters of Pennsylvania have a chance to vote on prohibition indirectly. William S. Vare, an avowed wet is running for the U. S. Senate.

Vare would retain the Volstead Act but would substitute two and three-quarters percent as the legal limit of alcoholic content.

The Anti-Saloon League in most of the States has advised its adherents to ignore the referendum, but in New York, both political parties have included planks in their State platforms urging an expression. The Democratic platform went so far as to urge the voters to vote in the affirmative.

644 Visitors Register at County Infirmary

Many Favorable Comments Are Heard At New Building.—Patients Express Thanks.

Six hundred forty-four persons who visited the new Nodaway County infirmary at the "open house" Sunday registered in a guest book, a check-up today showed. Two or three hundred others inspected the new building but did not register.

The nearby towns represented were Maryville, Pickering, Quitman, Burlington Junction, Clearmont, Skidmore, Parnell, Conception Junction, Barnard, Graham, Maitland, Ravenwood, Bolckow, Guilford, Hopkins and Wilcox.

The visitors did not come from these towns alone, however, as others were registered from St. Joseph, Spickard, Rosendale, Cowgill and Savannah, in Missouri; Shenandoah, Mystic and Clarinda, Iowa; Colby, Kan.; Plattsmouth, Neb.; and Barnesville, Ohio.

None were more pleased with the new building than the patients themselves, who made the following statement:

"The patients of the Nodaway County Infirmary wish to extend their greetings and thanks to the county court and superintendent, who have done so much for them.

"They wish to say that the home is very nicely arranged and equipped. They are glad to be in the new building, as cold weather is coming and they want the steady warmth produced by the improved steam heating plant."

Some comments made Sunday follow:

"Finest we have ever been in."

"The furnishings and fixtures show that good judgment was used in choosing."

"Best finish I ever saw."

"Everything looks very nice. It is a first class building."

"The farm certainly is kept neat. It is such that any farmer would be proud of. The building is better than the old one, and it was a grand building."

"It's the first time I ever was in a place of this kind. I never realized a county home could be so nice."

"The nicest and best built home ever built for a Nodaway infirmary. Lots of people do not have half as good a place to live in."
